South Dakota is primarily an agricultural state; and

The livestock industry constitutes the major portion of the livelihood of South Dakota farmers and ranchers; and

The cattle industry is recognized as one of the more stable sources of revenue within the state through the avenue of converting one of our greatest resources, GRASS into an edible product BEEF; and

The cattlemen of this state have always maintained an independent self-preservation attitude contributing much to the general welfare of our economy and asking very little in return; and

The Stock Growers of this state are meeting in convention at Belle Fourche, South Dakota, on June 9, 10, and 11.

I, through the powers vested in me as Governor of the State of South Dakota proclaim the period from June 9 through June 14, 1958, as Stock Growers Week, and urge all citizens to join the Stock Growers in the festivities of their convention during this week.
